ECTN - European Chemistry Thematic Network Association

The ECTIL European Chemistry Thematic Network Association (is a non-profit making association registered in Belgium and is an outcome of its years of network activity (1986-2002). The Association was created to provide a sustainable future for the European Chemistry Thematic Network igher education institutions, national chemical societies and chemical and software companies comparies commenters. There are currently over 120 members of the network coming from 30 different European countries and with associate members work wide.

Amulti-bigual series of tests, that can be used for certification / validation of competence in chemistry at various levels is now available on Internet. Associated Elevening facilities have been produced. The purpose of the tests is to validate the competence of all citizens, imagestive of their least

Visit the ECTN Web Site [1]

Source URL: https://www.soc.chim.it/it/ectn groups work on a range of topics and produce reports with a real European dimension. These reports and recommendations are available on our website

Links: [1] http://ectn.eu/