Conferenza del prof Charles JM Stirling - Università di Sheffield

Tuesday
21st October 2014

NAPOLEON'S BUTTONS

or why the public should bother with science

This talk deals with why some historic figures would have been more successful with some scientific knowledge, it ridicules bogus therapies and superstition in the media, comments on organic and genetic modification of crops and concludes with simple support for and application of science.

The lecture is held at 11.30 am.

Aula Magna, ITI "Volta", via Monte Grappa 1, Trieste

Teachers and students are welcome!
