

Prof. Antonello SANTINI, Ph.D. University of Napoli, Italy, 1992, Research Associate, Department of Chemistry, 1993-1994, National Research Council Fellow, University of Naples, 1994-1995, Appointed to Faculty, University of Naples Federico II. Professor of Food Chemistry, Department of Pharmacy University of Napoli Federico II. 1994- Director, Virtual Laboratory of research and education in Food (www.lva.unina.it), 1999- Director Net Learning Laboratory (www.nll.unina.it) 2000-, University of Napoli Federico II. Visiting Professor, University of La Plata and University Buenos Aires, Argentina. His teaching activity includes Fundamentals of General and Inorganic Chemistry, General Chemistry, Laboratory of Chemistry NLL (FAD, E-learning course which used the ad hoc designed above mentioned proprietary web based platform). He has also been teaching Didactical aspect of Chemistry, Resources for Science teaching in Internet, Laboratory of Chemistry. He has worked in educational aspects of Chemistry, FAD, remote e-learning and web based communication/teaching/learning aspects in Chemistry based on online information delivery system developed on different online platforms.

He is responsible of Erasmus agreements with Universities in Portugal, Lithuania, Romania, Ireland, Czech Republic and Turkey. He is Coordinator and Responsible of Institutional General Cultural Agreements between the University of Napoli Federico II and the Universities of Buenos Aires, Rio Negro, La Plata (Argentina), San Paolo (Brazil), Casablanca (Moroc), Peje (Kosovo).